HOUGHTON COLLEGE, Houghton, N.Y.

The Willard J. Houghton Library

The Christian student must be acquainted with a wide span of literature, including much of the worthy and some of the unworthy.

The Christian student recognizes that an enemy has sown tares in the wheat of God's truth.

Inclusion of this book in the library does not imply endorsement by Houghton College. The student must prove all things, holding fast the good; the teacher must rightly divide and interpret all in accordance with Holy Scripture.

INTRODUCTION

History. The Library of Congress began issuing printed cards for motion pictures and filmstrips in September 1951. These cards represent films cataloged by the Library of Congress and by libraries and institutions contributing to its cooperative cataloging program.

The cards for films printed in 1951 and 1952 were included in the monthly, quarterly, and annual issues of The Library of Congress Author Catalog during 1951 and 1952 and are represented in a special volume of the quinquennial cumulation of The Library of Congress Author Catalog 1948–1952. These cards, if they represented a film issued from 1945 on, were also included in the 1951 and 1952 issues of The Library of Congress Subject Catalog, and in the quinquennial cumulation of The Library of Congress Catalog—Books: Subjects 1950–1954. The Library of Congress catalogs in book form were reorganized in January 1953. Since then Motion Pictures and Filmstrips (the 1953 issues had the title Films) has been published as a special part of the comprehensive Library of Congress Catalogs, thereby providing a special tool for this type of material.

Purpose. Motion Pictures and Filmstrips is designed to reproduce the catalog cards for motion pictures and filmstrips currently printed by the Library of Congress. It constitutes a reference and research tool for a large part of such audio-visual materials. It serves also, by indicating the LC card number, as a tool for the ordering of LC printed catalog cards.

Frequency. Motion Pictures and Filmstrips is printed in three quarterly issues (for January–March, April–June, July–September), with annual and quinquennial cumulations.

Scope. Motion Pictures and Filmstrips includes entries for all motion pictures and filmstrips (but not for microfilms) currently cataloged or recataloged on Library of Congress printed catalog cards. The Library of Congress attempts to cover all films of educational or instructive value that are released in the United States or Canada. Data needed for the catalog entries is supplied mainly by film libraries, film producers, or distributing agencies. United States Government films were cataloged through 1963 with the cooperation of the Visual Education Service of the U. S. Office of Education. In addition, from 1951 through April 1957, cards were printed for virtually all of the published motion pictures and filmstrips which were registered for copyright during that period. Since May 1957 cards have been printed only for those copyrighted films which have been added to the collections of the Library of Congress or for which data has been supplied by producing or distributing agencies.

Entries. A film is entered under its title, followed by the explanatory phrase Motion picture or Filmstrip enclosed within parentheses. References to the films are provided through added entries appropriate to the normal reference, bibliographic, and service requirements of a general collection of films; for example, the names of producers and distributors, and the author and title of a published work upon which the film is based or with which it is correlated. In the quarterly and annual issues published during the period 1953 through 1957 these added entries were the basis of a name index which was discontinued with the 1953–1957 quinquennial cumulation. References from alternative titles or distinctive subtitles of films to the entry under which the film is listed are also included.

Subject Control. A subject index is provided, based on Subject Headings Used in the Dictionary Catalogs of the Library of Congress, its cumulative supplements, its auxiliary lists, and on the subject authority cards filed in the Official Catalog of the Library of Congress. The principles employed in the construction and application of these headings are, in brief, the use of terms in common American usage in direct form as subject headings and the application of the most specific heading to the material entered.[1]

[1] For a comprehensive explanation of alphabetical subject catalogs in general and of the subject entries of the Library of Congress dictionary card catalogs the reader is referred to Haykin, D. J., Subject Headings; a Practical Guide. (Washington, D. C., Govt. Print. Off., 1951.)

122621 Cataloging

References from terms which are not used to those which are used (see references) and, in the annual and quinquennial cumulations, references to more specific subjects or coordinate subjects representing other aspects or closely related matter (see also references) are provided.

In order that each film be included in the subject index, form headings are used to index films of a theatrical, creative, or autobiographic nature whenever the content of the film does not warrant conventional treatment under specific subject; for example, Cartoons, Juvenile films, Operas.

Policy. Motion Pictures and Filmstrips, a cooperative publication made possible only by the common interest of its subscribers and the Library of Congress in the development of tools for the aid of the researcher and the general public, will be kept responsive to the needs and suggestions of its users. A continuing effort will be made to cultivate its potentialities and usefulness within the limits of available means.

In response to requests from film libraries, beginning with the 1966 issues, a selected list of producers and distributors, with their addresses, has been included in this catalog.

Inquiries. Motion Pictures and Filmstrips is compiled and edited by the Catalog Maintenance and Catalog Publication Division of the Library of Congress, to which office questions and suggestions of an editorial nature should be addressed. Subscriptions and business questions should be addressed to the Card Division.

EXPLANATION OF CERTAIN MARKS AND SYMBOLS USED IN THE ENTRIES

Examples
1. Lathes I. National Safety Council	Immediately below the physical description and any notes concerning the film are listed the subjects with which it deals (preceded by Arabic numerals) and the names of persons and corporate entities connected with the film (preceded by Roman numerals). These terms, including Series, are used in preparing headings for cards in film catalogs, and indicate that entries will appear in such catalogs under the subject, the name of the series, etc.
649.8	The number in the middle of the last line of an entry is the Dewey Decimal Classification number, which is assigned for use by film libraries in classifying films by that system. Assignment of Dewey Decimal numbers was temporarily discontinued in November 1963 and resumed in October 1967.
Fi 65–1007 rev	The number assigned to each card for identification, ordering, and stocking purposes appears in the lower right corner of each entry. Cards may be ordered from the Card Division of the Library of Congress by using this card number. It consists of a prefix, Fi, followed by two digits of the year the card was first printed, and a serial number. Revision of the original entry is indicated by rev, rev 2, etc.
Fi A 67–2526 Weston Woods Studios	Many organizations and institutions participate in the cooperative cataloging program by sending information for the cataloging of certain films to be printed as LC cards. These cards show the symbol Fi A. The name of the contributing organization or institution appears in the lower left corner of the entry.
Fi E 64–136	The U. S. Office of Education prepared the cataloging copy for United States Government films for public educational use through 1963. These cards and cards for Government-produced films printed since that time are issued in the Fi E series.
